Dear Abu Hurayra Fahim,

I am writing to express my immense interest in a C++ Software Engineer position at HeadBlocks. As a recent graduate with a degree in Computer Science & Engineering and a passion for coding, I am very much eager to apply for this position to contribute to your company with my knowledge and skill. I think my skills make me a great fit for this position and I want to contribute to your company to create a significant impact in your organization.

In my undergraduate program, I excelled mainly in programming-related courses, such as structured programming, object oriented programming, data-structures, machine learning etc. I have good experience in real time programming and problem solving. I took part in various competitions and won a few awards. I also worked as a mentor in the programming club and helped young people grow. I always like to work in a team and believe, through my communication and collaboration, I will be able to create a positive impact in your company Inshallah.

Coding is my passion, based on my programming experience, I strongly believe that I can be a valuable asset for HeadBlocks. I would be thankful if I get the opportunity to demonstrate my capabilities further at the interview.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Ahmmed Abdullah Saquif
